He [Stone] is angry at the government, which he perceives as dishonest; at some of the research community, which he perceives as envious; and at most of the press, which he perceives alternately as blind and blinding.

Life
Lisa Grunwald
December 1991